HISTORY

Begun in 1996, Broadbent Madeira was inspired by Bartholomew Broadbent's father, Michael Broadbent, who called Madeira his "desert island wine," and who played a crucial role in sourcing the wines and establishing the blends. Bartholomew Broadbent, who spent more than a decade reintroducing Madeira to the U.S. market, was determined to create a line of Madeiras to compete with the best in the world.

VITICULTURE/VINIFICATION

Madeira Island is situated in the Atlantic Ocean, about 560 miles South-West of Lisbon and 375 miles West of the North African coast. Soils of the island are Volcanic, with a mix of basalt, trachytes and trachydolerites, tufa, scoria and conglomerates. The island weather is classified as subtropical with variations in temperature, humidity, and rainfall according to altitude. Average vine age of 25 years, and are trained using the Latada vine training system. Grapes are manually harvested in September, according to ripeness. Totally destemmed, crushed and pressed. The must obtained was allowed to ferment with wild yeasts at controlled temperature of 61°F in stainless tanks, then stopped by addition of neutral grape spirit (96% minimum) in order to keep the desired sweetness. Aged in and old American oak cask 650L in the traditional "Canteiro" system (natural oxidative process).

TASTING NOTES

A spiry nose that is musky and fungal. It smells dry, from its aging in wood. High acidity, but also rich, sweet and powerful, with huge flavors and aromas of chestnut. Hot finish.
