HISTORY

Bartholomew Broadbent's love for Portuguese wines stems from their eminent drinkability, restrained alcohol levels and the balance which makes them versatile enough to pair with all kinds of everyday dining. He was looking to make wines which were friendly on the palate, yet with enough quality to please the discriminating connoisseur, at an affordable price. Since then, 20 years and counting, Broadbent has partnered with family owned wineries around the globe to produce wines rich with the essence of place and tradition. First launched in 2005, the Broadbent Vinho Verde quickly earned a reputation as one of the finest Vinho Verdes available. Now, Broadbent is proud to expand the range with canned spritzzy white and spritzzy rosé wines, Instituto da Vinha e do Vinho (IVV) certified, following the same popular bottled taste.

VITICULTURE/VINIFICATION

Produced in the Barcelos commune—the top quality area for Vinho Verde—made exclusively from red grape varieties. The reds and rosé wines from Vinho Verde are harder to come by because the Minho region (where Vinho Verde comes from) is quite cool and often rainy, making it hard to ripen red grapes. A soft crushing and pressing make it possible to gently extract the juice. The way to make a proper Vinho Verde is to suppress the malolactic fermentation and inject carbon dioxide at canning - to give the wine its characteristic spritz.

TASTING NOTES

Light, fizzy and sweet-tart with notes of pomegranate, raspberry and pear.
